

MICHIGAN HOSPITAL CAREERS

One million Michiganders work in healthcare.
Be one of them.

CHANGE LIVES, INCLUDING YOUR OWN.

Beyond the doors of your local hospital, neighbors, friends and loved ones from all backgrounds and industries are contributing to the lifesaving care our communities need. Patients need to be checked in, medical and office supplies need to be ordered and stocked, rooms and beds need to be cleaned, and more.

DIRECT ROLES

For every child that grew up wanting to be a doctor, nurse or therapist, those positions exist right here in Michigan communities across the state. For direct roles, more than half a million positions exist within Michigan hospitals and healthcare systems.

INDIRECT ROLES

While many people think of healthcare jobs as direct roles, more than half a million jobs exist in indirect fields such as advertising, IT, administration, HVAC, human resources, social workers, accountants, cooks, janitorial workers, writers and designers. Every business function that major companies need to thrive exists within the doors of your local hospital.

JOBS FOR EVERYONE

Caring for Michiganders isn't limited to only multi-year medical degrees. Quality patient care relies on professionals from almost every sector, and your local hospital might just be looking for someone like you. Jobs are available today, and year-round, for patient transport, food services, environmental services, patient registration, lab aids, clerks and more.

Once you join a local hospital team, you've joined an employer with multiple career pathways and room for growth. Community hospitals offer competitive modern workplaces, featuring bonuses and benefits, on-site daycare, tuition support, wheels-to-work programs and more. With jobs available and training programs that can be taken in just a few short weeks, the opportunities to advance in your career at a local community hospital are endless.
